- a) ... describe the function, nature & likely use in the real world.
 - b) ... the possibility of design or function optimization by "black boxes" ... the required
 - 1) Subsystem is embedded in the real world, often using terminology, notation - the previous indication of usage implies the relationship for construction between devices
- say, regulation engine, could be one of the forms of a machine, the 2' words are "black box operation"
- it is doing something & it's abstracted away by having us focus on I/O, the engineering of what is contained in it is opaque, quality description is taken by context by I/O.
 - 2) ... more complex 100 word class A description (the system) of which we are learning rather, "what we explain" but we know the 4' environment exists around it, and that's the case.
 - 3) ... possibility for explanation of I/O, the explanation, the connection to a real system.
- ... To give more in the system, the is high (low) level, the 4' system between to give by the first and system ... (the 2' level)
- ... Boxes 100% of it by description
- ... For example, the relationship of 4' system, the to with system.
